WHAT'S DEVELOPING

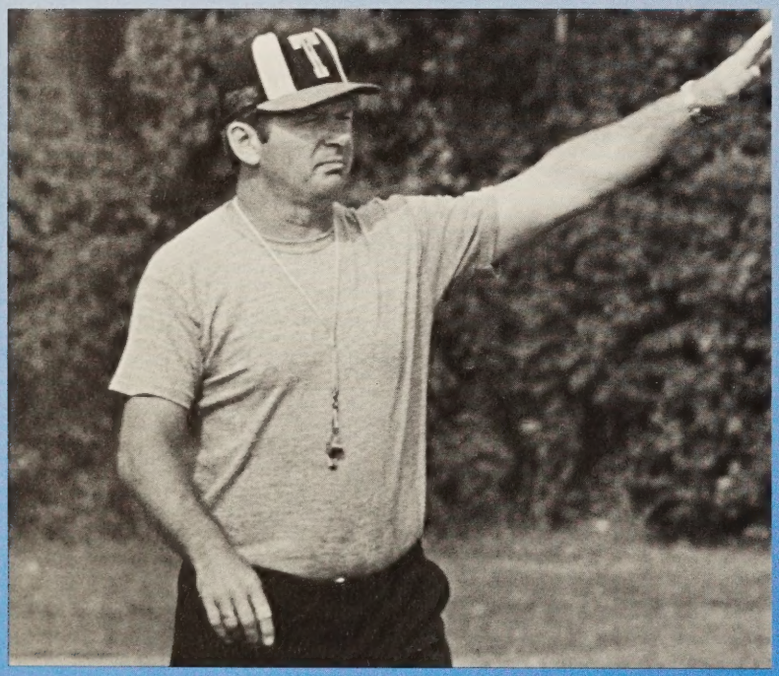
What's developing in '86 at Churchland High? To build? To bus? To renovate? ... short hair ... new graduation requirements ... Catering Specialist I ... Mr. Deniso ... renewing of old friendships ... varsity jackets ... "Magic Moments" ... Ima Spaz ... Education for Employment ... Seniors defeat juniors ... Miami Vice ... Come Sail Away! ... Mrs. Karen Perry ... rat tails ... International Relations ... Mr. and Miss Churchland ... college applications ... Senior English ... and much, much more ...



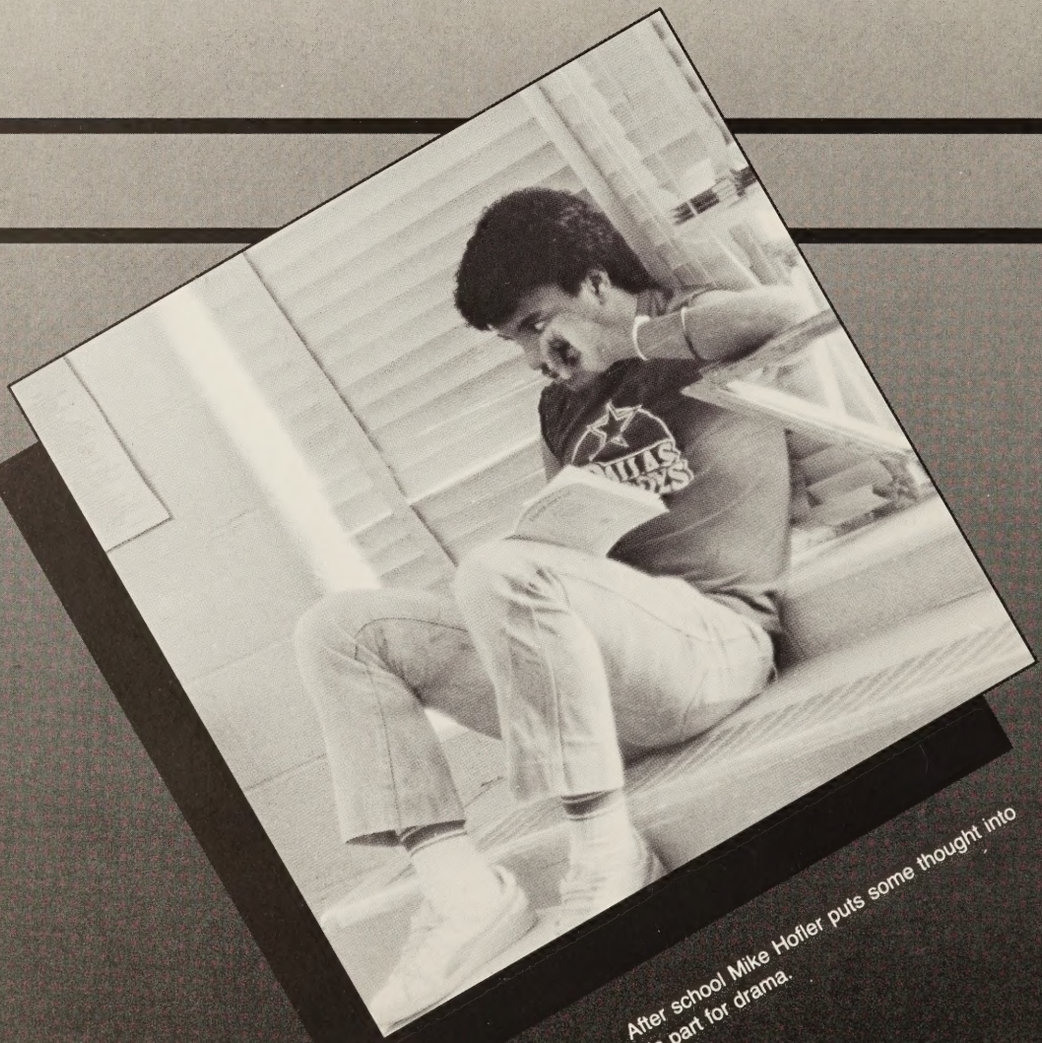
After seventeen years head football coach Bill Strickland is still going strong.

Suzanne Kline, escorted by Brian Pleasants, makes her way pass the JROTC color guard.

For the second year in a row Ley Havird coached his team to victory in powder puff football.

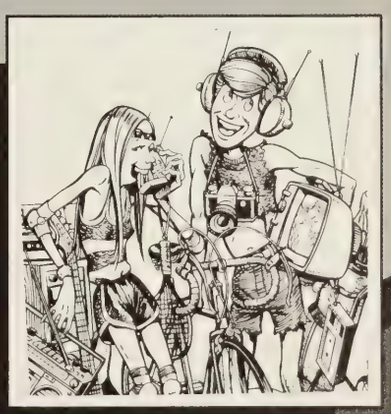
Miss Teen Virginia Angela Thigpen makes her way through the homecoming parade.

"And what do you find repulsive about girls?" asks the master of ceremonies to Cinderfella contestant Paul Jesselson.



After school Mike Hofler puts some thought into his part for drama.

STUDENT LIFE



Come Sail Away!

When I saw Bob coming up to my door, I finally realized I was going to the prom. Chills ran up my spine; I'd been looking forward to this all year. Bob looked so handsome in his tux, and I must say I looked radiant in my white gown.

The worst part was over - the picture taking. We were off to our first prom. Shouts of "Drive safely, have a good time, and be careful" accompanied us as we got in the car. On the way both Bob and I tried to picture how the New Spirit would be decorated - streamers, flowers, linen table cloths and balloons.

As we walked down the cement sidewalk, we viewed a long line of elegantly dressed prom-goers. We found a group of friends and joined them in admiring everyone's attire.

After a few minutes of waiting, we began to board the New Spirit. Everyone was greeted by tables covered with white linen cloths, balloons, and streamers as we had imagined. We found our table and began to eat after the ship left the dock. After dinner Bob and I went dancing, but others went up on deck and viewed the lovely, calm water. Toward the middle of the evening, they announced the Prom Queen and King, Danette Daniels and Bland Burkhardt.

Well, they say "time flies when you're having fun." It did. Eleven o'clock soon rolled around, and it was time to end the fun-filled evening. Everyone watched the crew members dock the ship. The night was not over by far for many, but the Junior-Senior Prom of 1985 was, and what an evening it had been.

Ken Keefer and his date enjoy the scenery from one of the upper decks of the New Spirit. The boat's three decks allowed ample space for prom-goers to move about.

Cheek-to-cheek dancing and slow songs were the order of the night for prom couples.

Smiles, long dresses, and tuxedoes were the order of the evening for prom-goers such as Beth Atkinson and Gary James.

Taking a break from the action on the dance floor are Jackie Venters and her escort.

Even Mr. Morgan and his wife got into the swing of things as they danced to the music provided by the two bands on board the boat.

The Magic Moments of Homecoming '86

It was the first time I had ever escorted anyone for homecoming. Little did I know how the night would turn out. I had hopes that the girl I was escorting would win. It felt good to be in a tuxedo, trying to look marvelous, absolutely marvelous. I was sort of nervous walking out onto the field in front of all those people, but that soon went away. While waiting for everyone to get on the field, there was a certain amount of talking going one between me and the girl I was escorting. The conversations were basically predictions of who we felt were going to win. All of the contestants were now on the field, and the tension was building. We finally heard the name of the Maid of Honor Theresa Slezak, and now it was the queen's turn. I was standing, wandering what I was going to do if my girl is chosen as Homecoming Queen. Well, low and behold, she was chosen, and my heart jumped from a pulse of 70 to at least 180. Now what do I do I think to myself. I finally escort the new Queen over to the principal so he can give her a crown. We then headed towards the cars, nervous but happy. I helped the Queen into the car and watched as she went around the track. When the car came back around, I helped her out, escorted her off the field, and at that moment my job was finished. It was fun to escort the Homecoming Queen my senior year, and I would do it again if I could.

Lacking anyone who looked like Pee Wee Herman, the senior class asked sophomore Jon Troxler to play Pee Wee on their float "Seniors' Big Adventure."

WAITING...

A crowd is gathering on the sides of the street. They are counting down the minutes and seconds. Then finally it begins. Down the street comes the first sight of something. You can't tell what it is because you are too far down the street. Closer and closer it gets. It seems to be two flags. Yes, it is the JROTC at the head of the homecoming parade.

It is the big day of Homecoming. Lots of hard work, planning, and preparation went into this big day. Floats had to be made. Costumes had to be designed. And lots of practice had to be performed. But it all pays off when you are marching or walking down the street and see smiles on the faces of friends, relatives, and even people you have no idea who are. All the hard work put into the parade is for the enjoyment of the people. This I know because I was a member of the JROTC Homecoming Color Guard.

Carrying heavy mattresses is just one aspect of Steve LaPlante's job at Mattress Discounters.

Typing letters keeps COE student Debbie Wong busy at her job as a secretary for a local lawyer.

Giant bagger and stockboy James Degaraff knows that the heavy items go in the bottom of the bag.

$ 3.35 - Is It Really Worth It?

"Beep. Beep." sounds the register as the price flashes on the screen. "$7.96," I say, even though the register reads "$6.97." The customer quickly corrects me as if the mistake were done purposely. "I'm sorry," I say, without any feeling behind the words. How could I show feeling? I have said these words too often.

"Oh, Miss, I wanted all of my cold things together." What am I? I'm not a mind reader. How was I to know? "Oh, Miss, this was two separate orders." Finally, the customer leaves. She is dissatisfied with her "grocery packing" servant. I try to shake the anger boiling inside me.

"Hi! How are you today?" I say in a robot-like voice. "Hello," says a smiling, elderly woman, and I realize that not every customer considers me their slave.

I guess it really is worth the effort to do your job right, even though the pay might not always be spectacular.

Cathee Spaugh, a cashier for Murphy's Mart, rings up another customer.

Splicing flim is just one of the jobs Jeff Moser performs as an employee for Plaza Theatres.

Fashion '86

SPIRIT?

What is spirit? Dressing up as girl for crazy day. Playing in the powder puff football game. Attending athletic functions. Marching in parades as a TRUCKER. Spending your Saturday cropping pictures and doing layouts for the yearbook. Coming faithfully to afternoon and weekend practices for GODSPELL. Enduring 100 degree temperatures to earn the privilige of playing for the TRUCKERS. It's anything that shows you care about being the best you can be.

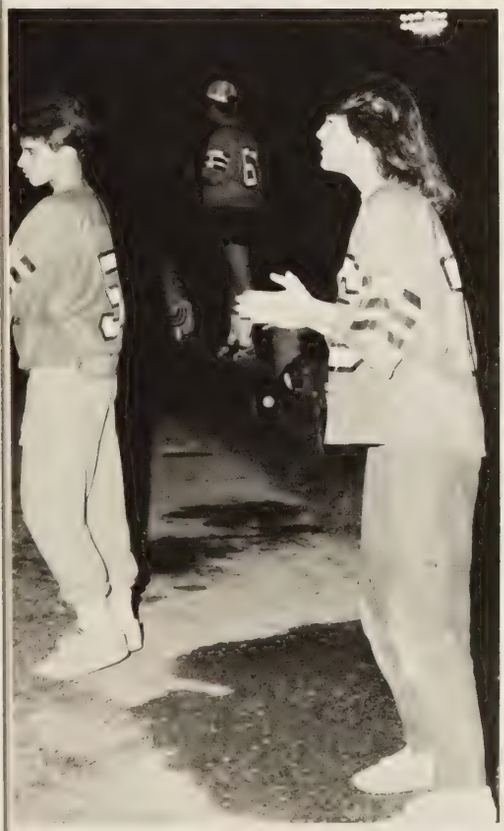
"We're number one!" became the chant of Patrick Poole, Chris Bundy, Tony Boone, Brent Deaver, Richard Stephens, Jeff Coleman, Darrell Jones and Chris Gilmore as they make their way through the parade route.

Clowning around at the parade are Jon Cobb, Stacy Murphy, and Lisa Kaye.

Cinderfella contestants and escorts Gary James, Mike Rowe, Lori Shelton, Stacy Meade, Paul Jesselson, and Ley Havird pose for a pre-show picture.

Who me? Powder Puff cheerleaders Ben Creamer and Mike Ratanataya keep a watchful eye on the game. If dressing up like a cheerleader isn't, what is?

Howard Hoffman played a valuable role as a member of the Marching Truckers. Howard hopes to continue his band playing as a member of a college band.



The most visible way to show school spirit is to be a varsity cheerleader like Nellie Vanden Dungen, Leigh Ann Ridenour, and Amy Osborne.

Assisting in game time managing of the varsity Truckers were Taylor Rhodes and Amy Morgan.

CINDERFELLA 1985
Gary James as Ima Spaz

"Hot Tamale" alias Jon Cobb greets a most appreciative audience.

Ima Spaz Reigns

The pageant was to enlight,
But the crowd came for pure delight.
It was when the guys had to meet
Girl standards in order to compete.
Hairy legs throughout the school
Came to see which ones would rule.
Wigs and stuffings were among the makings
That would make the creatings.
And now the time had come
For these crazy guys to have some fun.
Each one presented a talent
Which they gave quite valiant.
Now the judges came to the decision
That Ima Spaz performed with exact precision.
Ima Spaz, alias Gary James, was quite surprised
When he won first prize.
It was his night to remember
Because it was his crown to render.
Delight was the crowd's aspect
But it was the contestants who received the most respect.
Another event at Churchland High
Was finally over to Mrs. Tavernier's sigh.
The audience left with delight and stories
But it was Gary James who left with all the glories.

David Rotundo with hat in tow sings his heart out for the crowd.

Doing a super impersonation job of Shelia E. was George C. Stills.

"My name is Edith Ann" became a tag phrase for Lily Tomlin imitator Jon Troxler. He even built Edith Ann's famous rocking chair just for the pageant.

-Churchland High School-

To Build? To Bus? To Renovate?

In November 1985, the Portsmouth Public School Board was faced with the decision - "What should be done about Churchland High School?" Suggestions included renovating the current structure, building a new school in the Churchland zone, or busing Churchland students to other high schools. Before making a final decision the School Board decided to get estimations of the costs it would take to rebuild or renovate Churchland. While in expectation of the estimations, the School Board was flooded with complaints about the idea of busing Churchland students out. The final decision was made to build a new Churchland High School.

When making the decision to build a new school, the Board heard many comments from the people here at Churchland. But what did they have to say?

"When you consider the cost of renovation, the cost of energy in an old building, and the benefits that would be derived from the taxes the land sale would produce, then the decision to build a new Churchland High School seems both logical and beneficial to the city's treasury," noted Leann Cherry.

Senior Susan Neville observed, "The younger students at Churchland look forward to having a new larger home, but the older students and graduates feel they are losing a friend."

"A new school is a definite necessity for future Trucker alumni," noted Angie Gavin. "The school in existance is inadequate and inefficient for the purpose and number of students it was originally designed for. A new school could offer a better working environment, spur educational advancement in the classroom, and at the same time operate at a more cost efficient level. The time for change is now. To wait we only put off the inevitable."

Contributing to this article were Ley Havird, Dusty Crone, Susan Neville, Angie Gavin, Leann Cherry, and Al Nelson.

Many an alumnus has walked through the memory-filled halls of the present high school.

Mrs. Veronica Evans and Mrs. Barbara Davis assist in seating students at the assembly for the second floor. A new school could provide an auditorium which would seat the entire student body at one time.

English teacher Mrs. Barbara Yeomans floats from room to room to teach her classes, as do seven other teachers. A new school could provide more classroom space for teaching and for extra-curricular activities such as the yearbook and the newspaper.

Water spots are just one sign of the physical problems of the current plant.

Churchland High School isn't quite a disaster area as the sign indicates, but it does have its problems. Pictured is the ever popular government teacher Mrs. Susan Yearby.

Doing their best pyramid mount are the senior cheerleaders, who were captained by Brian "Cutchy Wutchy" Cutchins.

Taking five are Mrs. Yearby's junior cheerleaders, headed here by Paul "Bouncing Benita" Jesselson.

Ms. Strassle appears to be asking Robbie "Backseat Bertha" Cornatzer, "Robbie, where did you get your hair done?" Ms. Strassle, as well as Ms. Foor, coached the senior cheerleaders.

SENIORS

6

Senior players from the class of 1986 made it two in a row with a 6-0 win over the juniors. The seniors were coached by Ley Havird, head coach, and his assistants Chuck Thornton, John Outten, Gary Hanes, Anthony Edwards, and Scott Etheridge.

"Puff Night"

The night had come.
  Who would emerge number one?
With tension in the air,
  Many felt the juniors were in fear.
Many Churchland loyals came to see
  What the outcome would be.
With the setting in place,
  Here came the seniors in a rapid pace.
However, the game wasn't the center of attention.
  It was the cheerleaders not to mention.
They were dressed in an awful array
  With a unique appearance let's say.
It was because of this group that made the sponsors prey
  For they had no idea what these odd girls were going to say.
Both coaches were sure and bold
  Because they felt their girls were made of the right mold.
With the strategies set
  At centerfield the captains met.
When at centerfield the captains joined
  And the referee immediately tossed a coin.
The coin came up tails,
  Which gave the seniors the decision to hail.
Receive the kickoff was their decision.
  So the juniors would have to kick with exact precision.
Everyone knew at game's end
  All the players would once again be friends.
So the crowd relaxed for the evening
  To watch a spectacle that was sure to be pleasing.

Junior coaches Keith Broomhall and Tom Conway, as well as players Melissa Harris and Stephanie Mabry, intently watch the action from the sidelines.

JUNIORS

This array of awesome junior players was coached by Frankie Edmondson and Brian Bouboulis and their assistants, Tony Boone, Jimmie Greene, Jake Council, Cary House, Paul Jesselson, Tom Conway, and Keith Broomhall.

SADD

Students Fight Drinking and Driving Problem

"Don't go drinking and driving."

"Fifty-five saves lives."

These sayings and countless others are reminders of the serious problem of drinking and driving that faces today's society, especially the school age population. Churchland High School and the Churchland community, in an effort to combat the problem, have formed a local chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD).

SADD, an organization that began last year, started as a group of students that met after school to discuss different matters of drinking and driving. This year the organization has grown both in size and in focus. The students have a choice of meeting during activity period A or B or during both. Police Officer Mike Day heads the group. During these meetings students watch films about victims of drunk drivers who have been killed or victims who have barely made it through the accident. Guest speakers also come in and talk to the students about drunk driving.

The students also may do outside observations on law enforcement. The student may ride with Officer Day in his police car on a Friday or Saturday night while he is working. All the ride requires is a parent's signature saying that one may ride along with him. This first hand experience gives the students a chance to see what really happens in the world today.

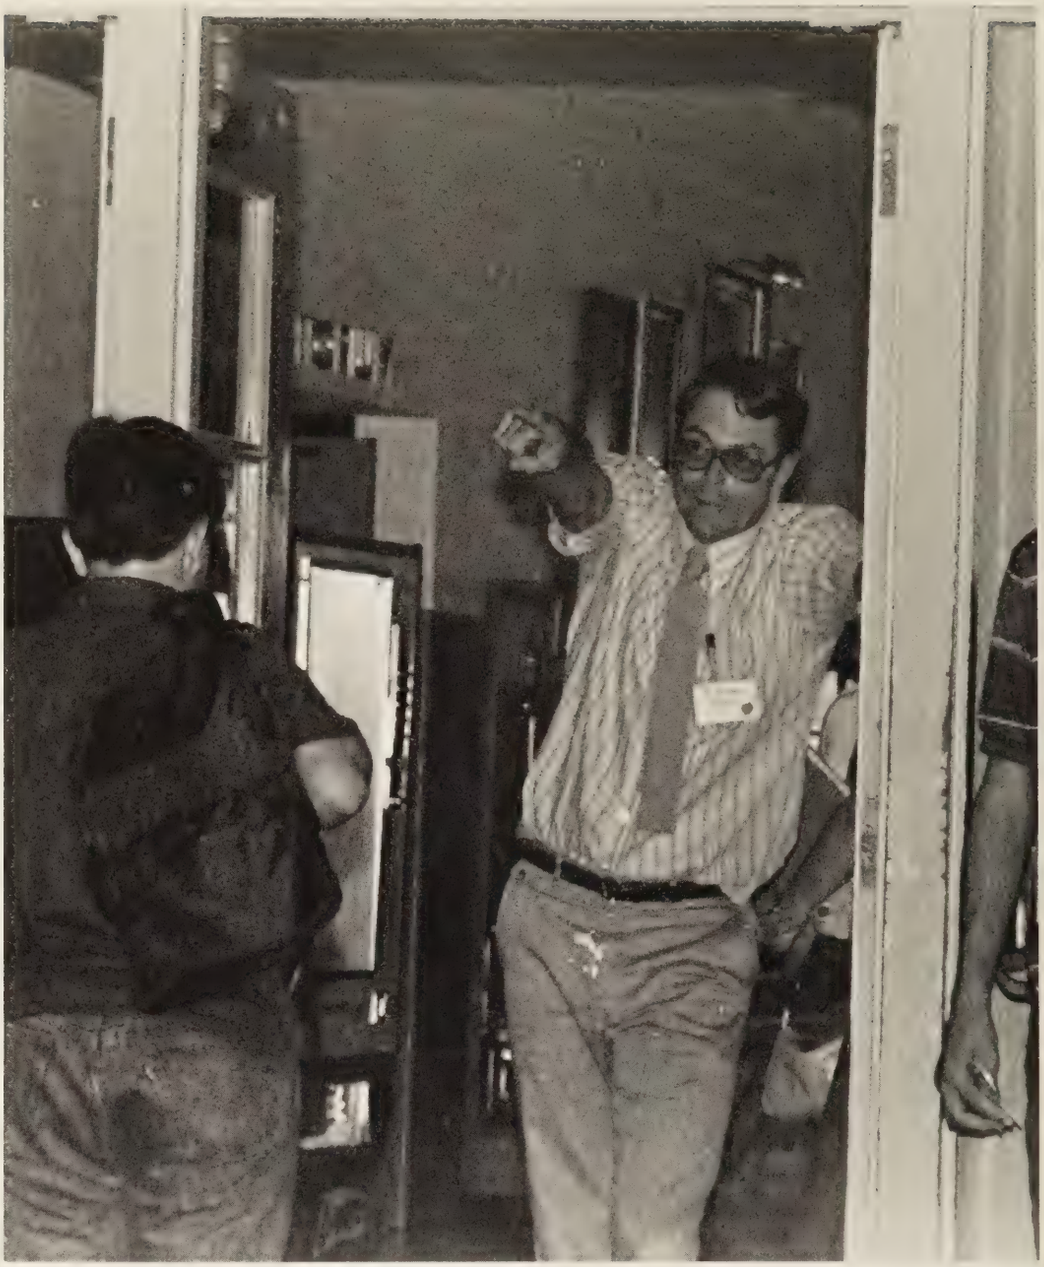
"Get that food back in the cafeteria, son!"

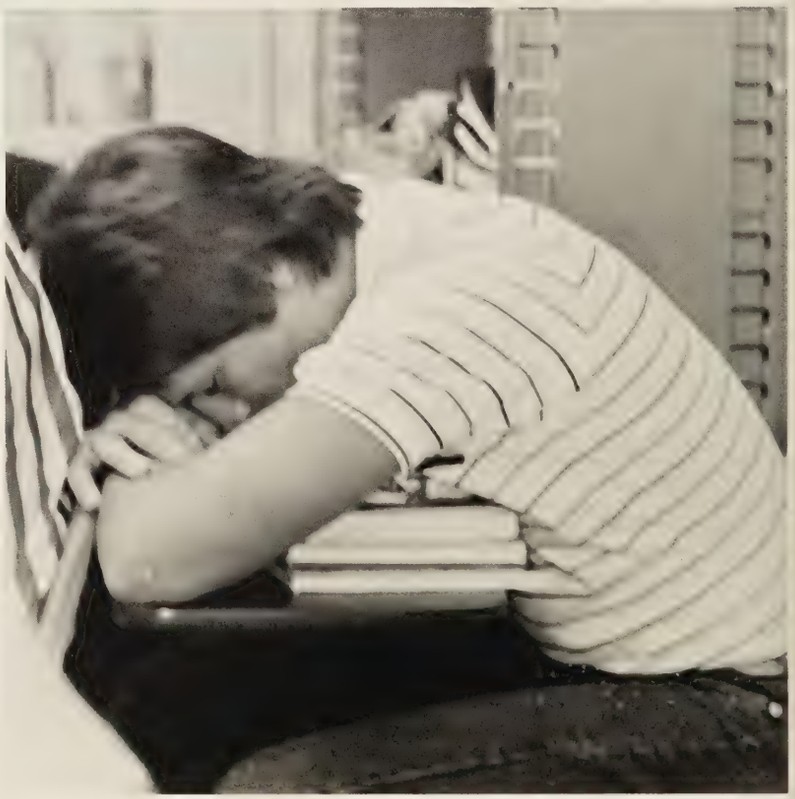
The average day at CHS. Is it an average day? At 7:30 studens start dragging in and wonder why they got out of bed in the first place. At 7:45 students are in first period, but some are running down the halls because they aretardy for the 6th time. Eight o'clock rolls around and Miss Murphy starts sending for different students. After third period, the first lunch shift starts. You'll finnd Coach Rhodes yelling at people, "Get that food back in the cafeteria, son!" He makes their day, of course. At the lunch periods you can see the phones busy with girls calling their boyfriends. The last class finally arrives and the students are falling asleep and trying to rush the clock so they can go home. The 2:15 bell rings, bringing life back to the students and teachers alike. Then it's freedom for all.

A typical day?



Mr. Carl Rhodes, who is forever reminding us where food belongs, is a reminder of the day-to-day routine here at CHS.

John Skrobiszewski works on an experiment for his physics class.



Classrooms aren't just for learning according to Dennis Vann, who takes a short nap in Mrs. Yearby's class.

Lunchtime becomes more than just a time to eat. It becomes a social break for students.

A group of friends, Greg Piland, Shawn James, David Posey, Chad Bryant, and Steve Lindstrom, roam the halls during lunch and manage to escape the wandering eyes of Coach Rhodes.

Stacy Murphy and Jessica Mann present their version of a news program for Mrs. Yearby's government class.

Angela Thigpen proudly represented Portsmouth and the state of Virginia in the nationally televised "Miss Teen USA" pageant. Angela was third runner-up to the title.

Justice at War members include Carl Wolin, John Kovalcik, Brett Ells, and Eric Bennett. Bands became a favorite pastime for many CHS music enthusiasts.

Fame and Fortune

Fame and fortune. Almost everyone wishes to achieve fame and fortune but the means to reach the end often differs immensely. For some, like Churchland's own Angela Thigpen, beauty pageants allow one to show her own style. Forming one's own band also became a means to "fame and fortune" as at least two groups of CHS rock enthusiasts ventured into the music world. The industrious, business oriented student could easily have made Junior Achievement (JA), a non-profit organization financed by local businesses and private organizations, his road to fortune, or at least his guide on how to earn that elusive fortune. Fame, for some like Ben Creamer and Tony Cosner, came in a more personal way. Ben and Tony were volunteers with Bennett's Creek Rescue Squad of Suffolk.

Whatever the means, it is self satisfaction that helps one achieve "fame and fortune," no matter how one defines the terms.

Ed Skrobiszewski clowns around with some friends after enjoying a Churchland dance. Dances were a favorite outlet for students after Friday night dances.

Tuesday nights at Manor High School became a familiar sight for Junior Achievement participants from Churchland.

Steve Smith and Eric Bennett also helped to form The Dreds, another local band.

On a rare day off from Plaza Theatres, junior Jeff Moser patiently waits for a nibble.

Guy Culpepper appears to be head over heels for biking.

Working on a one wheel, one leg bike trick is Brett Swindell, who also finds photography and skateboarding as ways to unwind.

Tediously trying to balance himself on his bike is Travis Lee.

Unwinding

It's finally 2:00. What do you do now? Unwind, of course. But how? That question has as many answers as Chaminade has students. Some have found to catch the latest on the news or to grab a snack bite before heading out later. Others head straight to work, which, believe it or not, can be relaxing after a hard day of classes. Still others head outdoors, getting back to nature. Two anyone ways to unwind here include hiking and surfing. A few more energetic students keep busy perfecting their skill at bike racing and freestyling, a relatively new sport to Chaminade.

Taking a break on the campus is another means of unwinding.

A Chaminade junior Thomas Kelly takes a break from his studies. Kelly is a Virginia Beach native who is majoring in Computer Science.

A student enjoys afternoon tennis. Tennis is one way to unwind after a long day.

Skateboarding-New Diversions

Invert. 360. Backside air. Half-pipe. Street. Tuck knee. Frontside. Strange terms, huh? Not really, if you're a skateboarding enthusiast. These are merely techniques and styles used in skateboarding. Churchland students, such as John Chilton, are so enthusiastic about the sport that they have ramps of their own on which to perfect their skills. Others like Brett Swindell and Jaye Thomas find Virginia Beach's Mount Trashmore a diversion from local ramps. Often noted more for their unique clothing than their sport, skateboarders are constantly trying to improve their images and their techniques.

Performing a 360 using street style '85 is junior Peter Kovalcik.

Mount Trashmore is the scene for Jaye Thomas as he performs a backside air.

Even in the frigid December days Steve Smith practices his inverting techniques.

John Chilton executes a backside air to perfection at a ramp located near his house.

A quick movement of the hands ensures that skater Steve Smith doesn't lose his balance.

Fun & Games??

Even with all the troubles of being a contestant in the Mr. and Miss CHS Pageant, it is worth the effort. The performance itself is a time for the conestants to work together. The practice sessions are long and strenuous, but are a learning experience for everyone. Each contestant learns how to conduct himself on stage, speak in front of a crowd, and express feelings without embarassment. The faculty direction this year was provided by Mrs. Vicky Tavernier and Ms. Elizabeth Foor.

The pageant was a success for the contestants and the school. For Brian Cutchins and Anne St. George, it was a moment that will last forever. Anne was the firt junior to win the title in recent years. Brian was by far the people's choice. Brian, who is known for being unconfident, secured his victory with his answer to the final question. "I would be President. I would have to give the American people the best." First runners-up were Brad Riddick and Susan Neville. Capturing the second runner-up positions were Chuck Thornton and Beth Burkhardt.

The pageant is, indeed, an experience that one remembers for a long time.

"My feet are killing me" could be Lee Cobb's thoughts as he was wearing someone else's shoes for the pageant. He just couldn't find his shoes before the pageant began.

Mike Riddleberger tackles his question during the final round of judging.

Jeff Walton and local talent provided the entertainment for the evening.

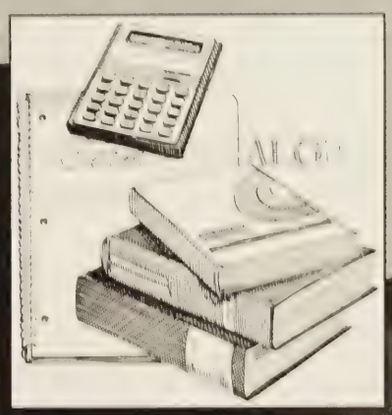
ACADEMICS



"I Did it!"

"I did it" was the dominant feeling as the graduates of the class of '85 received their diplomas. They had made it through the difficult years at Churchland High, and now they had made it through a valedictory speech by Jennifer Sunnucks, a commencement address by television anchor Jim Kincaid, farewell remarks from Mr. Morgan and Mrs. Taliaferro, and finally the awarding of the long awaited diploma.

They would remember the pre-commencement sideline activities, the long list of scholarship winners, and Merrill Teemant's many trips to the stage. They would also remember what it took to get to that night - four years of exams, headaches, trials, tribulations, and the friends and teachers who touched them in some way.

Marshals Chris Terry and Smith Trent lead the graduates to their seats.

Mrs. Gugler and the members of the concert band await their cue as they prepare for the entrance of the graduates.

Jonathan Senn smiles proudly as he shows off his graduation hat which displayed his sentiments for the evening.

A humorous commencement address by WVEC news anchor Jim Kincaid made the other long, and often drawn out, speeches of the evening easier to handle.

Jeanine Fields and class salutatorian Scott Saiko, both honor graduates, make their way down the football field.

Multi-cultural student Leodan Wood intently tackles a science test.

Language classes experience growth

With the advent of the twenty-two credit diploma, which requires three years of a foreign language or two years of two foreign languages, the foreign language department, headed by Latin teacher Mr. Robert Moore, experienced an increase in students taking courses. Mrs. Lucille Hernandez, who was a part time teacher last year, became a full time Spanish teacher this year. The department also experienced an increased emphasis on academic achievement and on the use of foreign languages for communication and vocabulary enrichment.

Churchland was fortunate to have several students such as Alex Garcia, Leodan and Juan Wood, and Vicky Wo who come from a multi-cultural background to share the experiences of other cultures. Although American Field Services (AFS) did not sponsor a foreign exchange student this year, they welcomed the exchange students that attended Western Branch High.

Cultural happenings were the focus of both the Latin and Spanish clubs. The Spanish club continued to stress cultural awareness of the hispanic communities around the world. The Latin Club, which reorganized this year after a year's absence, worked to understand more about the culture of early Rome.

Academic Achievers

The primary function of any school is to educate and to recognize those who achieve excellence in learning. Here at CHS, the school chapter of the National Honor Society boasts over 90 members in its membership. Supervising this group of scholastic achievers are new sponsors Mrs. Debbie Finger and Mrs. Peggy Johnson. Recognizing outstanding acheivement and character for eleventh graders are the Marshals, headed once again by Mr. William Gatling. Churchland's Tidewater Challenge Team once again made it pass the preliminary testing stage at Old Dominion, thanks in large to the dedicated efforts of sponsor Mrs. Barbara King, who was assisted this year by Mrs. Lucille Hernandez.

Make Me Look Mah-velous!

Have you ever wondered what it's like to be made over. Well, in November three DECA student "volunteers" had a profesional makeover done by the experts of Command Performance. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Brown organized the activity as a means to show marketing students how to look their best on and off the job.

DECA & MEP

Distributive Education Clubs of America are the co-op clubs that go along with the marketing education program classes taught here at CHS. In the marketing education (ME) program students are taught about the repsonsibilities, needs, and know how of the business world. By taking different classes offered through this program, students learn everything from marketing skills to the latest trends and fads about the fashion industry. In addition to learning marketing skills, students are given the opportunity to compete in marketing competitions.

The DECA competitive events are competitions for individual members of DECA in certain areas of marketing. The competitions are on three levels — district, state, and national. The categories for the competition and the competitors this year are as follows:

Automotive and Petroleum — Barry Bright, John Mathena, and Chip Martin, Apparel and Accessories Master Employee — Misty Seward, Beth Burkhardt, and Tim McNair, Apparel and Accessories Supervisory — Lisa Cooper and Brent Deaver, Food Marketing Master Employee — Mike Spires, Scott Harris and Alethia Bowser, Food Marketing Supervisory Level — Debbie Maddrey, Food Services Master Employee — Julie Caputo and Cliff Phipps, General Merchandising — Charlie Tuggle, Tommie Hewitt, and Frank Iwaniw, General Merchandising Supervisory Level — Scott Williams and Jennie Martin, and Student of the Year — Misty Seward, Beth Burkhardt, and Lisa Cooper.

C.O.E. (Co-operative Education) is a group of students learning about the business world. In charge of this group is Mrs. Judy Jones, who also teaches word processing. Mrs. Jones takes the students interested in working and helps them to find job in the business world. The students are evaluated by their supervisor on the work that they do. Mrs. Jones keeps a careful eye on the students becuase they represent Churchland High School. Mrs. Jones noted, "I feel the C.O.E. students are doing a great job and are representing the school well."

CHS Attends ODU Model UN

The Model United Nations Conference was held February 6th, 7th, and 8th at the Omni Hotel in Norfolk. Sponsored by Old Dominion University, the conference drew seven hundred students from a five state area. Churchland's International Relations classes sponsored two delegations. Representing Norway were Kendall Strickland, Blake Melton, Phillip Thomason, Brett Swindell, Robbie Darden, and Steve Gay. The delegation for Singapore included Pam Hunt, Beth Spencer, Melissa Cales, Russell Morgan, and Dennis Buckley.

Concentrating on the global issues of food, chemical weapons, Afghanistan, and terrorism, the delegations prepared to defend their country's position in the global arena. The bargaining and aligning necessary in order to pass resolutions took place during the caucus time.

CHS succeeded in writing and in co-sponsoring two resolutions on terrorism, which were ultimately passed in the General Assembly on the final day.

Trying to be recognized by the chair is Singapore delegate Pam Hunt.

Reviewing the day's activities are Blake Melton, Kendall Strickland, Steve Gay, and Brett Swindell.

Norway's representative Blake Melton awaits his turn to speak.

Representing Singapore were Melissa Cales, Beth Spencer, Pam Hunt, Russell Morgan, and Dennis Buckley.

Steve Gay presents his proposal to the general audience.

Push 'em Back

Here it is, the first day of the beginning of cheering tryouts. It is very exciting because everybody gets to see who else is trying out, and they get a good idea of whether or not they are going to make it. As the days go by and the day of tryouts nears, everybody is wondering who will make it. The day comes and approximately twenty five girls are trying out. Out of these twenty five girls, fifteen of them will be picked as cheerleaders and two as alternates. The moment arrives and the fifteen cheerleaders and the two alternates are announced. Congratulatory hugs are offered and the girls begin to function as a unit. Next the captain and the co-captains are chosen. The cheerleaders chose Jackie Weston to lead them as captain and Kim Hasty and Leann Cherry to assist as co-captains. Next begins the process of practicing. However, before practice begins, a cheerleader falls victim to grades, an important part of being a cheerleader. One must keep her grades up in order to stay on the squad. Katherine Mayo, the first alternate, now becomes a part of the squad. Summer practice begins in the second week of August. Cheerleaders practice for an hour and a half each day. These sessions prepare them for the upcoming football season. Once school starts the squad only practices about three times a week for about an hour after school. Through the football, basketball, and wrestling seasons, the senior cheerleaders relish each game because after this year, there are no more Trucker games to cheer for.

Summer Sacrifice

Long practices on hot summer days
Are what a football player does if he wants to play.
Hard hitting scrimmages along with windsprints too
Caused many players to quit before week two.
For those who stayed it was no big deal
To be at an 8 a.m. practice and find it was real.
Everyone always tried to keep in mind
That practice would end and they could soon unwind.
Back the next day they would come
To what they called fun.
Fun it was until it got to be 90 degrees,
And then the players said, "Hey, coach, can we wear shorts today, please!"
The coaches would just laugh and kindly say,
"I wish it would get hot today."
All of this just to play on Friday night
Only to be in everyone's sight.
While on the field we went out ot do our best
While the crowd would sit in total unrest.
If we were to win everyone felt eased,
But on the nights we lost the fans were displeased.
The life of a high school jock
Is picturesque to that of a cop.
When the heat is on people look your way,
But when the going gets bad, people turn away.

Striving Hard

Tri-captain Ley Havird led a brilliant defense as he was named first team district and all Portsmouth linebacker. He was the team's leading receiver, tackler, and the winner of the team's most prominent award Most Valuable Player. John Outten, David Rotundo, Bryan Bouboulis, Chris Bundy, Gary Hanes, and Sam Thomas were other defensive standouts to win district and city honors. A semi-strong ground game was led by Anthony "Chap" Edwards, who was named to the city's first team and to the district's second team as a running back. Chap led the Truckers in yards rushing as Mark Powell paved his way as best blocker. On offense district and city honors also went to Tony Boone, who helped keep defenders off leading passer Sam Thomas.

Kicker Joel Teemant practices his follow through while Gary Hanes handles the holding duties.

Does It All Pay Off?

Seniors Anthony "Chap" Edwards and Trey Rhodes wondered day in and day out if football was worth the time. For Trey it has provided discipline that will help him at VMI and Chap may very well receive a scholarship for his efforts on the field. Trey and Chap both agree football was worth the four months of agony.

Chap was a standout for the Truckers in the offensive backfield. He was a first team All Southeastern District tailback his junior year and a second team selection his senior year. Edwards rushed for well over a thousand years in his illustrious career. Chap Edwards will be missed next year, but his accomplishments will live one.

Trey Rhodes was a most underlooked player during his career at Churchland. Serving as a backup quarterback for two years, Trey didn't get much playing time. Trey's accomplishment was what he could do once he got playing time. he completed over sixty percent of his passes in his two seasons as a Trucker. Trey's career came to an end this season, but he demonstrated what one can do if he sticks with something.

J. V. Truckers Strive for Success

The junior varsity Truckers experienced a mixed season, finding high moments and low moments in each game played. In their 6-6 tie with Indian River, the J. V. Trucker offense moved the ball well while the defense played well also. The team, however, experienced difficulty with what Coach Griswold called the "big plays." Mental mistakes and bad lighting contributed to the 0-20 loss to Western Branch. Despite these setbacks, the J. V. Truckers had a promising quarterback in Taylor Rhodes while Greg Piland led the receiving game and Chris People took it to the ground. Defensively Chad Bryant proved to be consistent. Joey Ponte and Chuck Matthews played tough as well. The young Truckers have talent and proved that with proper training and lost of hard work, they could be contenders.

Shawn Rountree, Bobby Bekier, and Todd Hewitt celebrate at a junior varsity football game.

Greg Piland, Chuck Matthews, Chris Peoples, and William McKoy were standouts on the J. V. squad this past season.

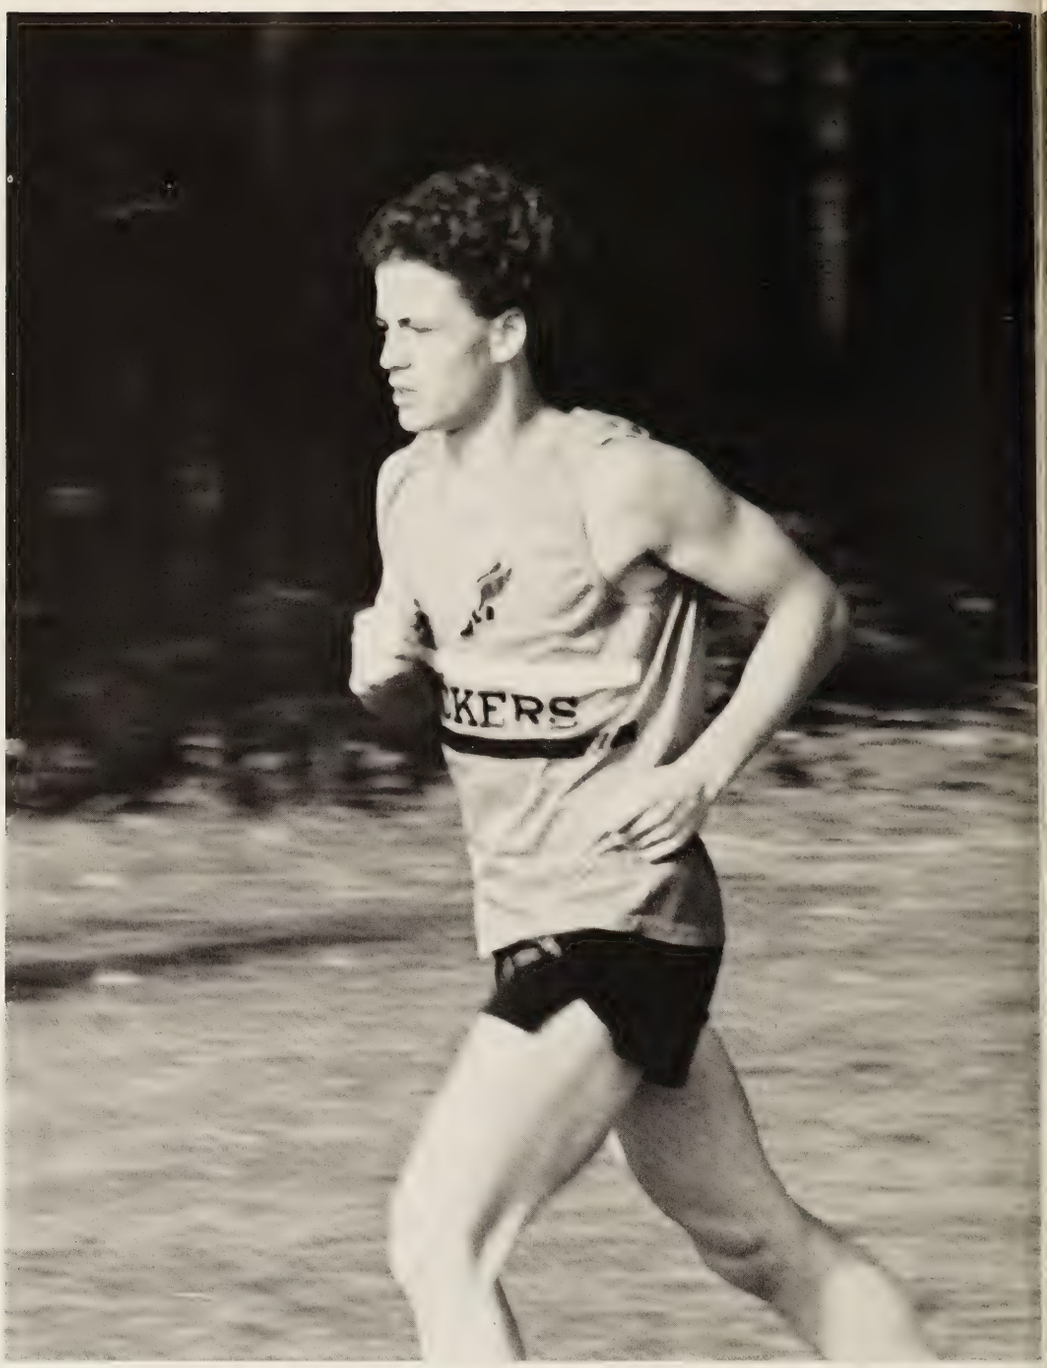
Greg Piland — Up and Coming

Sophomore Greg Piland looks more like a basketball player than a football player, but yet he always gets the job done well on the field. The tall and thin Piland led the junior varsity in pass receptions, reception yardage, and touchdowns. Piland provided the air threat with his graceful balance and agile hands. He and quarterback Taylor Rhodes could provide Churchland with an unstoppable passing combination in the years to come. The sure-handed Piland is undoubtedly the top junior varsity prospect for next year's varsity football team.

Cross Country finishes first in city, second in district

For the third consecutive year Churchland's fall cross country team finished first in the city. In district competition the Truckers fared well, falling short to eventual champions Western Branch of Chesapeake. This young team was led by sophomores Trey Hanbury and Ben Hester and junior DeShawn Wood. Senior leadership was provided by veteran Chris Terry. Losing only Terry to graduation should make this young team strong contenders for the next few years.

Coaching duties for the cross country team were once again handled by Coach Shelton Wilson.



Senior runner Chris Terry paces himself in an effort to lead his team to victory.

Ben Hester spurs on cross country team

Sophomore cross country running star Ben Hester led the Truckers to the city championship. Individually Ben placed third in city competition and fourth in district competition. Ben's best time was 17:45. Ben's achievements garnered him "Athlete of the Month" honors from the Portsmouth Times.

A Season of Bounces

The Varsity Basketball team completed one of its most successful seasons in recent years. The team compiled a record of 10-9. It is sure that Coach Shelton Wilson is proud of his team. Coach Wilson commented that the Truckers once again lacked a big man inside. His misery could end if 6'5" freshmen Alvin Darden progresses in his next three years.

Football star Chap Edwards led the Truckers to a first division finish in the Southeastern District. Chap led the team in scoring, averaging 16.4 points per game. Mahtorhee Bell led in rebounding while Sam "Ghost" Thomas electrified home crowds with his slam dunks. Sophomores Bobby Holloman and Eric Wynn gave the team both great offensive and defensive play throughout the season. Senior point guard Ley Haviird was the general of the Trucker squad this season. A defensive standout, Ley kept up the team's intensity and winning desire.

With only Edwards, Thomas, and Haviird graduating, the Truckers should be sound next season. Bell, Wynn, and Holloman will be counted on heavily with Quinton Drewery, Brian Pleasants, Joel Teemant, and Darden competing for starting positions.

Defense and Preparation Pave Way for Lady Truckers

Graduating three starters from last year's team, this year's Lady Truckers finished with a 7-13 record. The improvement came as a result of intensity on defense and superior preparation under first-year coach Danny Deniso. Coach Deniso placed extreme pressure on the girls to improve as they progressed. His coaching tactics paid off as the Lady Truckers finished fifth in the district, their highest district ranking in five years, and tied for city honors with Norcom as both teams compiled 3 wins and 1 loss against city opponents. The Lady Truckers finished the season winning four of their last six games.

Leading the team in nearly every statistical category was Tammy Goldsmith. Tammy averaged nearly 18 points per game, finishing the season with 332 points. She scored a career high 34 points in the Lady Truckers' 44-37 victory over Norcom. Point guard Jessica Mann, a co-captain along with Goldsmith, was the team's floor leader. Goldsmith and Mann teamed with second leading scorer Erinn Finger, Amy Young, and freshmen Dana Christmas to complete the starting line-up.

Next season could prove to be a rebuilding year as the Lady Truckers will suffer from graduation. Graduating are Goldsmith, Mann, Young, Bonnie Myers, and Peggy Senecal. Returning next season are Finger, Christmas, sophomores Stephanie Allen, Debbie Canada, and Leslie White, along with freshman Kira Krumm.

Tammy Goldsmith will continue her basketball career next year at Radford University. She earned a four-year scholarship while Jessica Mann was the recipient of the Portsmouth Sport Club's $ 1,000 scholarship for academic and athletic achievement. It was a far more successful season for the Lady Truckers than their record indicates.

CHS Defeats Norcom 54-52

Karl Teemant sank two free throws with two seconds left to give Churchland a 54-52 victory over Norcom. Playing this game with only eight players, Churchland was both outsized and outmanned. But that didn't bother them one bit. Playing a scrappy zone defense led by Wallace Bell, Roosevelt Dingle, Teemant, and Leodan Wood and with sharpshooting by Taylor Rhodes and Thomas Sessoms, Churchland stifled a confident Norcom team. With Teemant and Wood crashing the boards, Churchland outrebounded the taller Greyhounds. Sessoms led all scorers with 17 points. The effort given by the Truckers in this game thoroughly exemplified the meaning of "Trucker Pride."

Jack Mounie: A Man of Many Talents

Funny, nice, understanding, helpful, and encouraging are just a few remarks you might hear from students at Churchland High School about a great man who is more than just an assistant principal. John R. Mounie has dedicated more than thirty years to the school system. Mr. Mounie does everything from coaching Churchland's wrestling team to changing the snack machines. He always does more than expected. Being the athletic director dictates much work for him. When not having a wrestling meet, he has to make sure all the other sports have buses to their games and when at home, he opens up the gym for the selling of the tickets.

One who has had the privilege to be coached by such a man looks at him as more than a coach. He gives off to each and everyone the inspiration to do as well as he can and to feel good about what he's doing. The feeling of accomplishment seems to always be there in his presence, after a win or a loss in any event. To have the honor to know Jack Mounie gives a person a strong feeling of pride and respect.

1 - 2 - 3! Pin!

Injuries proved to be costly for the Trucker matmen this season. Among the injured were John Outten, Mike Ratanataya, and David Rotundo. John, a three-year letterman, was unable to participate in a match this season. Mike, also a three-year letterman, was injured in the beginning of the year. The most costly injury proved to be an ear injury to potential district champion David Rotundo. David was undefeated at the 167 weight class, but was knocked out of competition late in the season.

Individual honors this season went to Mark Powell (Unlimited) and Brian Cutchins (176). Both earned second place district tournament finishes, qualifying them for regional competition. Returning next season are Mark Powell, Warren Powell, Mike Riddleberger, Mike O'Connor, Martin McNair, and two promising freshmen, Steve Mann and Sandy Crone.

Par Four!

The golf team had a very successful season with an awesome group of "birdie hunters." The team included first seeded Jim Pittman, who played well throughout the season. Brian Pleasants and Boyd Griffin took turns switching at the second and third positions. Both contributed a great deal all season long.

The golf team had a strong fleet of fourth, fifth, and sixth position players that challenged each other all season for a chance to seek that glorious moment on the green. Those seekers included returning players Pat Holyfield, Gary James, Jessica Mann, and Sam Russo. New players included Freddie Deans and Brian Tarkenton who were very supportive.

Girls Succeed on the Mats, on the Bars, and on the Courts

"40-love" Sarah Ossman calls out to her opponent as she begins to motion her next serve. It was a tight match until the very end, like most of the matches this year played by the Girls' Varsity Tennis team. The team consisted of three seniors, Sarah Ossman, who played number one; Pam Hunt, who played number two; and Gee Kim, who played number four. Juniors Anne St. George and Elizabeth Wiggins played three and five respectively. Jinah Lee and Jessica Canos were a hit at number three doubles. The team was led by Steve Liles who remarked, "I was proud of the girls. They did a great job this year." The team finished with a winning year, but the most exciting match was their victory over their cross town rival Western Branch.

Placing second in the district and advancing to the regionals highlighted a super season by the gymnastics team. This team was led by senior captains Katherine Mayo and Bonnie Armentrout. Rachel Brisbin and Leigh Ann Ridenour were the two all-around stars. Kelley Heise and Suzanne Kline should keep the gymnasts in top shape next year. Jeannette Keefer will be attempting a comeback after a serious leg injury. Aiding the program will be a junior high gymnastics program started by Coach Joe Bystrom.

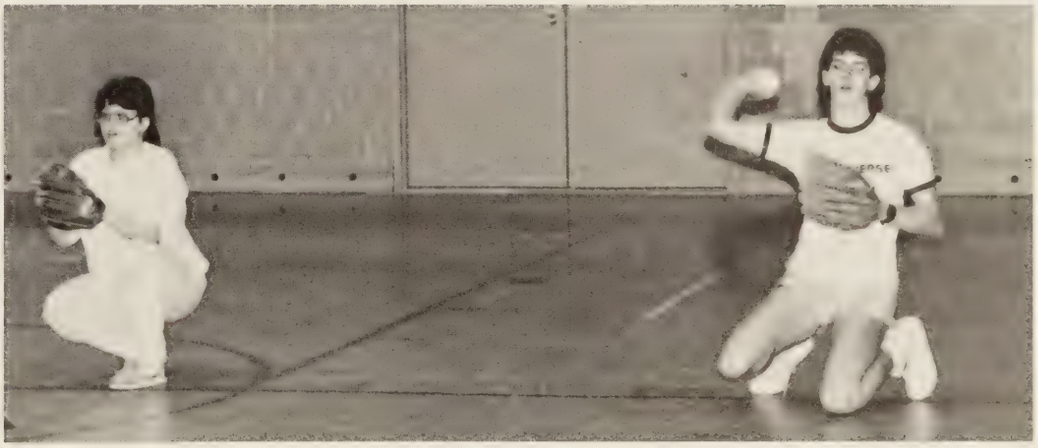
'86: A Continuation of Winning Ways?

Plagued by graduation, the Girls' Varsity Softball team looks to be reloading its gun. Without its starting infield, which graduated last year, much of the burden of a winning season rests with the juniors returning from last year. Suzanne Kline, Sharon Blick, Cindy Bittle, and Nellie vanden Dungen will look to fill some of the vacancies left by graduation. Returning seniors Tammy Goldsmith, Amy Young, Sarah Ossman, Bonnie Myers, and Kim Heroux are the backbone of a team that battled for the district title last season. Goldsmith and Young will have the biggest job as they form the cathcer-pitcher duo.

The 1986 Trucker Soccer team could very well vie for the Southeastern District title. Returning to this year's team are experienced juniors and seniors, as well as a talented freshmen group. Chris Terry, center striker, and Sam Russo, goalie, are returning starters who could be the key to the Truckers' season. The future of Churchland's soccer team looks promising as its junior class consisting of Mike Carter, Joel Teemant, Peter Kovalcik, Jay Smith, James Degaraff, and John Gomoke will return next season. Coach Danny Deniso feels the team's season rests with its ability to play as a team rather than as individuals.

Sarah "Awesome" Ossman gets ready to throw down in softball practice.



Lynda Wallace and Tammy Goldsmith wait patiently to receive a ball from an oncoming pitch.

Mike Keefer dribbles the ball downfield.

Sprinting To a Track Title

Coach Lawrence's track team, which consists of many members of the indoor track team, could have an outside shot at the the district title. Team members will settle for no less than a city title. Tri-captains Sam Thomas, Kenny Britt, and DeShawn Woods will lead the team this season. Among the returning lettermen are Mark Powell, Leo Holt, Martin McNair, Tim Lloyd, and Tony Brown.

The girls' track team looks to field a good team this season. Mrs. Lassiter is once again the general of the squad. The girls' team also contains many members from its own indoor track team. With both teams coming off excellent indoor seasons the Truckers should hold their own in district competition.

Volunteer assistant coach Paul White prepares to sprint down the hall.

Even though track is an individual sport, team comraderie is essential.

Coach Calvin Lawrence seems to be pleased with the track team turnout.

Nina Sperber stretches out during a workout.

Mrs. Lucy Lassiter leads the girls' track team once again.

Destiny Lies Within Themselves

This year's Varsity Baseball team can write its own destiny this season. Talent is the word most often used when describing the personnel on the '86 squad. Faultering the past two seasons, the Truckers are a pre-season favorite in this year's district title race. Returning three starting pitchers from last season, the Truckers hope to shut their opponents down. Cary House, Jim Pittman, and Brian Pleasants could prove to be the strongest pitching staff of any district team. Returning starters include Trey Rhodes and Paul Jesselson. Rhodes, a two-year starter, and Jesselson will lead the hitting attack. Also returning are seniors Ley Havird, Gary Hanes, and Mike Buie and junior Bryan Bouboulis. Havird will handle the catching chores while Hanes, Buie, and Bouboulis look to fill in a vacant position. Top prospects look to be Dennis Buckley, Jim Greene, Joel Cocke, and Brian Cutchins.

Returning lettermen for the '86 season are (front row) Cary House, Brian Pleasants, Bryan Bouboulis, Paul Jesselson, (back row) Trey Rhodes, Mike Buie, Gary Hanes, and Ley Havird.

Seniors Earn New Honor

In an effort to recognize seniors at assemblies, the faculty assembly committee headed by Mr. Robert Moore established new guidelines for assembly programs. All assemblies began with the national anthem, the calling to order by the SCA presiident Tamrah Lilley, and the prsentation of the colors by the ROTC Color Guard. Seniors were seated in the front center section of the auditorium. Seniors were also honored by being the last called to the assemblies and by being the first allowed to leave the assemblies. Each assembly also ended with the singing of the Churchland High School Alma Mater.

Leading the seniors with their new honors were Jessica Mann - president, Gary James - treasurer, Sam Russo - secretary, and Amy Young - vice-president.

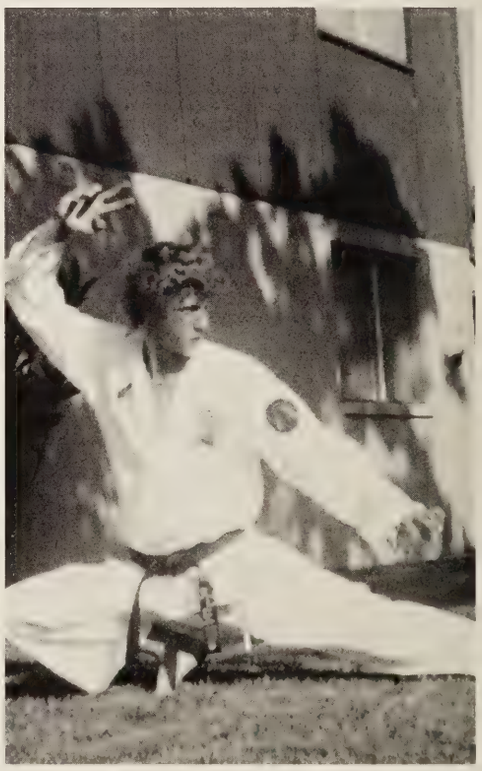
Mike Buie: The Karate Kid

Some seniors are not honor graduates, and some seniors are not in the superlatives. Some seniors, however, have outstanding qualities that are just overlooked. One of these seniors is Mike Buie. Mike maintains excellent grades while accomplishing outstanding feats in baseball and the martial arts.

Weighted classes in Biology and Spanish III top his senior schedule. Mike hopes for an acceptance from Old Dominion University for the fall of 1986. A 22 credit diploma on June 13th should help him gain this acceptance.

Mike also has had many athletic achievements in his high school years. Two varsity football letters from Lei Lahua High School in Hawaii are highlighted by the addition of his letter in varsity baseball from Churchland. Another quality most people don't know about Mike is his accomplishments in the martial arts. Certificates and trophies from Tae Kwon Do and Ju Jitsu classes clutter the walls of his room. His many martial arts belts hang on his walls.

Future plans for Mike include receiving a college degree and perhaps opening a martial arts studio in later years.



Practice makes perfect for Mike Buie as he reviews drills and stances to help him maintain his form in the martial arts.

1986 winners of the Best Dressed award Barry Holland (right) and Susan Fosnocht take a break to view some new looks in fashion.

Smiling pretty for the camera are Bonnie Babb and Benjamin Creamer, this year's winners of the Best Looking award. Their smiles say it all.

What's It Like to Win?

Have you ever wandered what it was like to win a senior superlative? For Bonnie Babb, this year's winner of the female best looking award, it was overwhelming and a complete surprise. Bonnie noted, "I feel there are far better people than me, but I will definitely accept this special honor. What makes it more special to me is that I was chosen by my friends and classmates, and I didn't know that they felt that way about me. The honor of being chosen Best Looking of the class of 1986 from Churchland High School will stick with me forever."

"Are You Ready?" - Jackie Weston Is

"Are you ready? Let's get started." This is a chant that is heard at every pep rally and varsity football game. The person out there leading the chant is Jackie Weston. Jackie tackles everything that she does with enthusiasm and spirit. Jackie has, during her high school days, been actively involved with the junior varsity and varsity cheerleading squads, serving as co-captain of each squad. Her talents are not limited to cheering, however. She runs track for Churchland and played on the powder puff football team for two years. Her honors include being named Maid of Honor to the 1984-85 homecoming court and being selected "Athlete of the Month" for November.

Jackie Weston, escorted by George Carver Stills, proudly steps out onto the football team as a homecoming representative for the senior class.

"May I Have Your Attention for the Announcements?"

Playing the piano, driving her Mustang, seeing Rich, and ACT are among her favorite things to do. She's none other than Susan Duke. Susan, an honor thespian of Thespian Troupe 598, also enjoys doing the morning announcements. Susan is also kept busy with her varsity cheerleading activities. Susan excels on the stage as indicated in her many performances and awards in dramatics. During the summer of 1985, Susan attended the Governor's Magnet School for the Arts for Theatre. Susan's hard work in public speaking, dramatics, cheering, and the academics garnered her the 1986 Optimist Club Award, a service award presented annually to an outstanding senior. And who could forget that she's spurred on and comforted daily by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Duke, mathematics department head.

"Way to Go, Truckers!!"

Dressing like a girl when you're a guy. Screaming to the top of your lungs at pep rallies. Playing on the basketball or football team. These are just a few of the reasons that Bonnie Myers and David Rotundo were named the most school spirited in the senior class.

In addition to these activities, Bonnie served as girls' sports editor on the yearbook and worked with the senior class advisory board and with the senior class float. David's activities included work with the wrestling team and with the SADD chapter at CHS. Whenever an extra dose of spirit was needed, Bonnie and David were there to provide it.

"Did you hear the one about..." It's the wittiest pair of Scott Etheridge (left) and Stacy Murphy.
Bonnie Myers and David Rotundo show how far they'll go to prove they're the most school spirited.

"¿Habla usted español?"

Working with languages is just one of the things that Preston Fahie enjoys. He has a special interest in Spanish and has taken four years of Spanish.His grades and interest in Spanish have gained him a place in the school's Spanish Honor Society for the last two years. In addition to Spanish, Preston excels in English, participating this year in the English 12 Honors program. His overall grades, leadership, and service to the school have placed him in the National Honor Society and helped him win a place in the school's Marshals program. Preston also enjoys working with his hands and is participating in the Industrial Arts club this year.

Preston Fahie does a quick review during homeroom for his next class.

Brian and Leann- The Best There Is

"How could I, out of 216 seniors, be voted 'Best-All-Around'?" This was the question that Leann Cherry and Brian Cutchins both asked themselves after being named to the honor for the class of '86. The answer is simple. Leann and Brian both exhibit academic performances, school spirit and a commitment to excellence. Above all, these two friendh have garnered the respect and admiration of their peers. According to Leann and Brian, "We feel priviliged when something like this takes place, especially knowing that our classmates, whom we have known since elementary school, voted for and selected both of us. No one could feel the sensation the both of us do about this honor."

Best-All-Around for 1986 are Brian Cutchins and Leann Cherry.

"Now a Word About our Sponsor"

We became upperclassmen
One year ago.
Mrs. Stafford was our sponsor,
An algebra teacher, you know.

However, she had to leave
To teach at another school.
The Class of '86
Had no sponsor to rule.

The School Board was looking hard
For someone to take her place.
They looked over the candidates
And selected an innocent face.

They had picked someone with style,
A dependable guy at that.
Mr. Fanny took Mrs. Stafford's place.
No questions were asked.

He immediately went to work
To achieve this treacherous goal
Of sponsoring the Senior Class
And keeping us under control.

As a class sponsor
He had some work to do,
Starting with Homecoming
And Senior Week, too.

He was a very busy guy.
While on the yearbook staff,
He still made powder puff practice
To provide us with a laugh.

He is a stern teacher,
Respected by his peers,
Hustling down the hall,
Graded papers comin' out his ears.

As a teacher, we all respect him.
Despite his boyish looks,
No one will argue
When he says, "Take out your books."

I think you will agree,
Even with a nod,
As Senior Class Sponsor,
Mr. Fanny has done his job.

Marvin Fanny - 1986 Senior Class Sponsor

Three Down, One to Go

For a class sponsor to travel four years with the same class has become somewhat of a rarity these last few years. However, this year, the junior class can make claim to that fame. Mrs. Susan Yearby has been their class sponsor since their freshmen year. She has seen them through fundraisers, freshmen and sophomore class dues, and now the prom. Some of her duties this year included the powder puff football game, which she deemed too violent, jewelry fundraisers, class meetings, and, of course, the Junior-Senior Prom. Just remember, Mrs. Yearby, three down and just one more to go.

Mrs. Susan Yearby, class sponsor for the juniors, reads up for her new class International Relations.

Juniors "Capture the Moment"

Using the popular Kodak commercial series as a foundation, the junior class created their float for the 1985 Homecoming celebration "Magic Moments." "Capture the Moment," the junior entry, consisted of a giant camera mounted on a miniature football field. The idea and design was the combined idea of the advisor and the officers. Although the float did not win - it received second place - it was a creative effort by the class of 1987.

Donald Shipp takes aim at the junior class on the junior entry "Capture the Moment" as it prepares to leave the parking lot at Roses.

Money, Money, Money!

One of the tasks of a junior clas is to give a prom. In order to give the prom, the class must have MONEY. And how do you earn money if you're in the junior class - fundraisers. The first fundraiser held by the juniors this year was a jewelry sale. Most members of the class participated and helped to raise a total of $ 1400 for the prom. A second fundraiser was the annual powder puff football game, which earned $550 each for the junior and senior classes. In addition to fundraisers, the prom was suppported by class dues. After all the money was collected, final preparations were made for the prom, which was held at Holiday Inn Portside, across the river from last year's prom site The New Spirit.

What's the Junior Advisory Board?

What exactly is the Junior Advisory Board? The juniors, like the seniors, have elected class officers and representatives from each homeroom to manage the affairs of the class. Coordinated by class sponsor Mrs. Susan Yearby, the Advisory Board makes the decisions for the class. The board makes sure that each homeroom is made aware of the activities going on with the junior class as a whole. The primary jobs for the board this year were to design and build the class float and to set up for the prom.

You would be wearing a hat like that if you were in charge of the junior class, too. Yes, Mrs. Yearby, we understand it was just one of those days. At least it wasn't a birthday!

And Where are You at 4:45 AM?

At 4:45 a.m. on a cold winter morning, most of us are sound asleep. But that's not the case with sophomore Greg Buxton. From 4:45 until 6:00 a.m., two days a week, during the winter, Greg swims to prepare for competition. In addition to these morning swimming sessions, Greg works out with weights from 4:30 until 5:00 p.m. each afternoon. After working out with the weights, Greg then swims another two hours. On Saturday Greg swims from 7 until 9:30 a.m. Swimming meets have taken him from Indianapolis, Indiana, to Orlando, Florida. The most amazing thing about Greg isn't his swimming record, but his academic record. Greg has maintained an A average for both his freshmen and sophomore years.

Gregory A. Buxton - swimming star and academic leader - stands for excellence as a Churcland Trucker.

Class of '88 Gets Early Start

In an effort to avoid costly class dues for their junior and senior years, the class of '88 started early on fundraising this year. Headed by Chad Dennis, class president, the sophomores conducted, as their first fundraiser, a catalog sale, which included the sale of such items as jewelry, calendars, and Christmas decorations.

Class officers were Chad Dennis, president; Lanie Samonte, vice-president; Amy Morris, secretary; and Jin Ah Lee, treasurer. The sophomore class was sponsored this year by Mr. Steve Rivers.

Class of '88 Makes Magic

Marriage. Graduation. Giving birth. These were just a few of the magic moments the sophomore class brought to life in its first place homecoming float. Using a magician, his assistant, and a huge magic hat, the float depicted some times in one's life that are "magic."

The float and its construction were largely a result of the efforts of parents from the sophomore class. Parents provided the time, the place for construction, and the materials for the float. Unfortunately, after all the work was done, rumors persisted that the sophomore class had failed to turn in the required entry form and fee. SCA sponsor Mrs. Dussia quickly put that rumor to rest as the sophomore class was awarded first place and the fifty dollar first prize award.

Aboard the sophomore class float which took first place in the homecoming parade were Mark Tuggle, Nina Sperber, Debbie Canada, Chad Dennis, and Amy Morris.

'88's Finest - Trey and Joline

"I was really shocked when I was chosen as sophomore homecoming representative, but I felt very honored." These were the words of Joline Warren after she was selected to the homecoming court by her fellow classmates. Joline, an honor roll student, enjoys school, especially her Marriage and Child Development and Spanish classes. She is also taking biology and algebra this year

Escorting Joline at the homecoming assembly and game was Trey Hanbury. Trey, also an honor roll student, is actively involved in debate and track and is a newly elected member of the National Honor Society.

Yes, Joline Warren and Trey Hanbury are '88's finest.

Joline Warren and Trey Hanbury smile for the photographer after the homecoming assembly.

Stephen Mann leads class

Funds Add Up for Class of '89

Led by class president Stephen Mann and sponsor Mr. Earl Mabry, the freshmen class decided to get an early start on fundraising activities. The two important fundraisers were a doughnut sale and an item sale. Collection of dues was actively pursued. Sponsor Mr. Mabry hoped that by starting early, the class of 1988 would avoid having such high dues when they are juniors and seniors.

Working with Mom and Dad

Taylor Rhodes. Amy Yearby. Amy Morgan. Chantel Yeomans. Cameron Strickland. John Duke. What do these freshmen have in commom? Each one has a parent who works here at Churchland High School.

But what is it really like to have Mom or Dad here at school with you? Most find it a fairly interesting experience. Amy Yearby and Taylor Rhodes find the morning drive in a car easier to digest than the daily bus ride. Amy also finds the people her mom teaches to be interesting guests at home. Amy Morgan finds that just having her dad around is a comfort. She notes, "I know he's here to help me." With the good, however, must come the bad. Chantel Yeomans would rather not have her mother here. She dislikes being known as Mrs. Yeomans' daughter and would rather not have her mother talking to her teachers and checking out her progress in her classes.

CHS freshmen who have parents working at school include (front row) Chantel Yeomans, John Duke, Cameron Strickland, (back row) Taylor Rhodes, Amy Yearby, and Amy Morgan.

Music, Arts, and Theatre

Music, art and the theatre were the order of the day for five freshmen during the summer of 1985 as they participated in the Governor's Magnet School for the Arts. Andy Ryder spent his time studying vocal music and found the school a great place to meet interesting people. Whitney Little had always loved the theatre before going but now she's really hooked. She thinks that Churchland High School has a wonderful theatre department, and she plans to participate in every drama activity possible. Jeff Walton, a highly accomplished musician, studied vocal and instrumental music at the school. He attributes his success at the school to his extensive background in music. he has studied piano for 8 years, chorus for 5 years and music theory for 5 years.

Communicating With Sign Language

Churchland has been the first to do many things. This year, in keeping with the policies of Superintendent Rondle Edwards, Churchland High became the first in the area to have a program of studies for deaf high school students. With the help of an interpreter, Mrs. Frances Vernon, the students are able to attend regular classrooms. Participating in regular classroom activities provides a feeling of being accepted by their peers. The presence of these students has inspired many teachers and fellow students to learn to communicate through sign language.

Mrs. Frances Vernon, interpreter, has a friendly "talk" with Sandy Bond, Danny Duckwall, and Paul Cratch.

"Who do you have for Business Law/Computer Concepts?"

Every year students ask one another who has whom for what class. This year there were thirteen new faces around the halls of Churchland. Mrs. Annie Thompkins and Mr. Danny Deniso, who taught at the junior high, joined the ranks of high school teachers. Also coming from the junior high were Mrs. Marilyn Truesdell and Mrs. Frances Vernon, who worked with the hearing impaired students. Also new and working with the resource programs were Ms. Daisy Natalio, the Education for Employment teacher, and Ms. Beth Foor, who teamed with Ms. Strassle in the modified resource classroom. An increased enrollment warranted a new English teacher in the form of Mrs. Jeanette Perry. Another Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Karen Perry, joined the staff, teaching Business Law/Computer Concepts. Mrs. Jewell Widgins also joined the business department. New chorus and art teachers came in the form of Mrs. Vicky Tavernier and Mrs. Carole Platt, respectively. Rounding out the list of new teachers were Miss Linda Bracey in science and Mrs. Lucille Hernandez, who was now employed full-time.

"Good Morning, Churchland High"

"How do you work this new Xerox machine?"
"Where can I get some passes?"
"Is Mr. Morgan in his office?"
When you want to know the answer to any of these questions - and more - you don't have to ask ten different people to get an answer. One person will do. And she's Mrs. Cora Twiford. Mrs. Twiford, the head secretary in the main office, is never too busy to answer your question, make a call for you, locate some forms, write a tardy note, or just share a minute in her busy day. After her many years here at Churchland, she knows just about everyone and just about everything there is to know about the school and the community. Some people even refer to her as "Mr. Morgan's right arm." Her service is not limited to the school. She and her husband are active participants in events focusing on the Churchland community. She is indeed a rare person.

It's 2:52 and time to go home, and Mrs. Twiford is still smiling.

"Hey, Friend!"

"Hey, Friend!"

For the last twenty years that phrase has been heard many times in the halls of Churchland High School. And its originator has been everyone's friend Mrs. Iola Battle. Mrs. Battle, who begins her workday at 6:00 a.m., is never too busy to share a story with a student or to greet a student or a staff member with her now famous hello. Students' respect for Mrs. Battle was evidenced last year when her slide picture at the final SCA assembly received the loudest ovation. When asked what she liked most about the school, she replied, "The students." She couldn't name anything that she disliked about the school. At 2:00, her departure time, she leaves the school with the same smile that she entered with. Her warmth, friendliness, dedication, and service to the students and staff of Churchland will always guarantee her a place in the hearts of Churchland alumni.

Mrs. Iola Battle (far left), everyone's favorite custodian, pauses long enough to share a story with a student.

WHAT'S DEVELOPING?

What's developing with the yearbook? A lot. After a few years with Josten's Yearbook Company, the staff switched to Hunter Publishing Company of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. With Hunter Publishing, the staff was able to use a computer to type, fit, and proofread the copy that appears in this book. At first the computer seemed more of a hindrance than a help. Students Cary Fedei, Blake Melton and Gerry Brunk attended a four-day workshop at James Madison University during the summer. In September staff members Debbie Wong and Brett Swindell, a transfer from Alliance Christian, attended a Saturday workshop at Green Run High School. The addition of spot color, the increase in the size of the book from 8x10 to 9x12, and the added pages really made a difference in the 1986 TRUCKER. To top it off, staff members Blake Melton and Cary Fedei designed the multi-colored cover that bounds the yearbook. So, yes, a lot was developing with the yearbook.

The newspaper also saw changes this year. New sponsors Mr. John Sykes and Mrs. Jean Snow took over the reigns of the newspaper. The newspaper, like the yearbook, decided to use a computer to print their final product. Personal items became a big hit this year.

Sponsor Marvin Fanny ponders another yearbook problem — too many pictures and not enough space on the layout.

A Saturday morning work session finds assistant editor Debbie Wong and editor Cary Fedei finishing up layouts for the first deadline.

SCA, Pierette serve school, community

The Pierette Club is an organization of thirty senior girls that work together to help the needy and to serve Churchland High School. During the Thanksgiving of 1985 the Pierette Club donated various canned items in an effort to end famine in Ethiopia. In a friendly gesture, they prepared refreshments for the faculty and staff of the school. In representation of the club, each girl is required to wear a dress at the beginning of each month. Each year the club selects a pierette sweetheart. This year the honor went to Ley Havird. This honor generally goes to the senior guy admired most by the club. When the year comes to an end, the girls hold a meeting to elect fifteen of the thirty girls for the following year. In turn these girls select the other half of the club at their will. These members are expected to follow in the footsteps of the past members.

The SCA, like the Pierette Club, works to serve the school and community. During November the SCA sponsored a canned food drive to feed the needy. The major activity of the year was the sponsoring of the homecoming parade, elections, and dance. Nineteen eighty-six saw the SCA conduct a dating service for the Valentine's Day period. Unfortunately, the SCA must rely on new leadership next year as the present vice-president Joel Teemant will be leaving the area and thus will not be in the running for the presidency held by Tamrah Lilley.

SCA sponsor Mrs. Tracy Dussia shows her enthusiasm for CHS as she dresses for fifties day.

At the fall meeting of the Virginia Thespian Conference, Thespian Troupe 588 from Churchland High School achieved honor status as a thespian society. The troupe was recognized for outstanding performances and contributions to the world of theatre. The recognition of this troupe was due in part to the increased interest in dramatics. Rehearsal and Performance, a new course offered by Mrs. Scott, was designed for advanced actors with more than a casual interest in dramatics. The students used a new text The Actor at Work as the foundation for the course. Mrs. Scott's primary goal in working with the dramatics students this year was to expose them to a variety of audiences in a variety of forms of theatre. Activities to accomplish this goal included a night of one act plays, a puppet show at Christmas, a one act for a nursing home and a show for Tower Mall. A high point of the year was the performance of Godspell in conjunction with the music department.

Honor thespians for the 1981-82 season included front row: Blake Walton, Beth Scott, Susan Duke. Back row: Karen Kellam, Michael Hoffer, John Sikorzewski, and Kim Hanus.

James Degaraff, Karen Kellam, Kim Hanus, Penny Hounfield, and Beth Scott served as the officers for the drama club.

Achieving Perfection

Perfection is what it is all about. Practice is usually one and one-half hours long and sometimes there are night practices held. You watch them and if you give them a listen and a look, it gives you a sense of pride if you go to Churchland High. You hear a loud voice saying, "Get it right." The woman in charge of them is very caring about how these students perform. You guessed it. They are the hard-working, dedicated band of Churchland High School. All of their efforts to achieve perfection have paid off in the form of winning over twenty-four trophies during the first half of the 1985-86 band season.

Howard Hoffman discusses a blocking problem with band director Mrs. Mary Gugler.

Enduring the heat of the sun and the weight of the drums during a hot practice session are Robert Phelps and Ricky Thomson.

Student director for the 1985-86 band season was Redmond Grigg, seen here conducting the band during a summer practice.

Adding a comic effect to the halftime activities of the powder puff football game were Wendy Wharam and Lillian Perry.

First Annual Trucker Classic Established

The first few weeks of school were eventful ones for the Marching Truckers. Preparations were being made for the First Annual Trucker Classic. The band invited bands from local schools, as well as from out of town schools, to participate in a band competition to be hosted in Trucker Stadium. The exhibitions featured competitions in several areas- flags, rifles, marching units, and overall band performance to name just a few. Mrs. Gugler and the Band Parents Association hope to make this an annual event.

The host band of the event featured Redmond Grigg as the drum major. Redmond, a junior, has helped to change the band from an average sounding band to a dynamic sounding band. Redmond is assisted by individual leaders of the performing groups, such as Bonnie Armentrout heading the majorettes and Lori Hayes and Stefanie Moyer supervising the flag squads.

Pat Roberts makes his way through a hot, summertime practice in preparation for a season of halftime activities.

Trying to make a ticket sale at the First Annual Trucker Classic are Jonathan Martin and Marsha Stublen.

Lori Hayes, captain, and Stefanie Moyer, co-captain, lead the flag squad through another spectacular halftime show.

CHURCHLAND MCJROTC

FIRST PLATOON

SECOND PLATOON

THIRD PLATOON

Why ROTC?

Why join ROTC? It's not a required course. According to juniors Darrain Peoples and Jimmy Powell, ROTC instills good habits of self discipline. Other members take ROTC as a sampling of what the actual armed services has to offer. A few students take ROTC because it guarantees they will be attending Churchland because Churchland is the only Portsmouth high school to offer ROTC. Whatever the reason, the course can only serve to make one a better leader.

Highlights of the 1985-86 year for the platoons of the Churchland MCJROTC were the ROTC Ball on November 9th and the use of the color guard in various city services, such as groundbreaking ceremonies, parades, receptions, and the annual homecoming parade. The color guard also became a permanent fixture to assemblies as each assembly opened with the call to colors.

Forming the 1985-86 MCJROTC Color Guard are Greg Atkins, Kendall Strickland, Jimmy Powell, and Michael Spires.

A highlight of the year was once again the ROTC Ball, which was held on November 9th.

It's More than Just Singing

Chorus just doesn't mean singing. One also learns about theory, which is important if one wants to sing properly. Through new chorus director Mrs. Vickie Tavenier, cooperation has become a must if one is to succeed in the group. Mrs. Tavernier's focus also encompasses a comprehensive program, which stresses all aspects of a chorus education.

Chorus classes enjoy fun activities such as traveling to other schools and singing before younger students, hoping to inspire them to join chorus. This year the chorus classes traveled to downtown Portsmouth and the neighborhood of Pinehurst during Christmas to celebrate the illumination ceremonies. After the annual Christmas concert, the chorus went caroling through the halls of Churchland High School.

Chorus members Natalie Riddick, Amy Morgan, and Lisa McCoy perform during the Annual ROTC Ball.

Mrs. Fae Wilson Buckley

The Show Must Go On

"She was more than just a favorite teacher of everybody," explained Cathy McCoy. "She was a best friend."

"She could tell if you were having problems just by the way you looked when you came in the door," remarked Kim Phelps, Villagers president.

She was Mrs. Fae Wilson Buckley, a choral director for the city's school system for twenty-two years, first for Harry Hunt Junior High School, then Woodrow Wilson High, and finally Churchland High for the past eleven years. The untimely death of Mrs. Buckley marked the loss of a teacher, a friend, and a colleague.

Mrs. Buckley was remembered in a memorial service by the students of Churchland High and in a vocal scholarhip to be presented yearly to an outstanding senior who wishes to pursue a career in vocal music.

In the true spirit of Mrs. Buckley, the choral department ensures that the show must go on.

FHA, AIASA Keep Members Busy

The industrial arts and home economics departments were kept busy this year with fundraisers and local competitions. The Future Homemakers Club of America (FHA), which met during activity period B, prepared Christmas cards for the elderly and made a large contribution to the Toys for Tots campaign to provide those less fortunate ones with a better Christmas. The FHA also participated in local FHA-HERO Star events. Ms. Carey and Mrs. Cavender also started mini-chapters of FHA, a FHA chapter within each class offered in the home economics department.

The Industrial Arts department was kept busy selling handmade clocks, designed by the students in the industrial arts classes. Courses offered in the department this year included wood technology, construction technology, and revamped programs in graphic communcations and mechanical drawing.

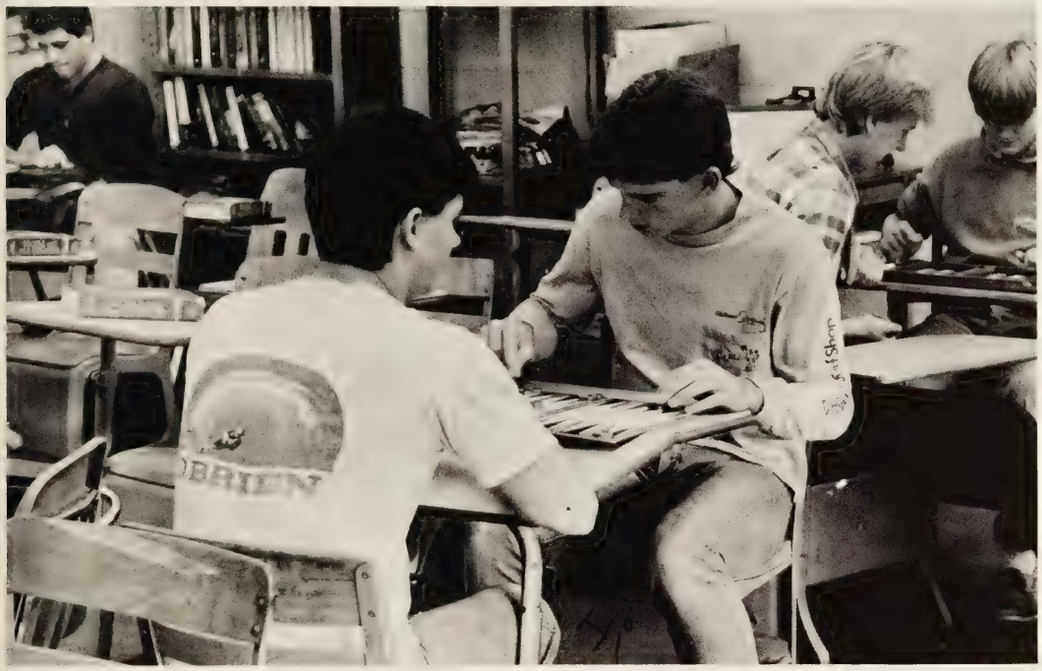
"How about a game of chess?"

The purpose of activity period is to get students involved in activities that they would not otherwise have a chance to pursue. Four groups — the art club, the backgammon club, the chess club, and the computer club — permit members a chance to improve their skills in vocational hobbies, such as chess, backgammon, art, and computer technology. The backgammon, chess, and computer clubs continued to attract diverse memberships. The art club, newly organized under art teacher Mrs. Carole Platt, had to limit its membership its membership to students taking art because of the space available in the art room.



Chuck Thornton and Cary House enjoy a friendly game of backgammon during activity period A.

Thanks!!

To Elizabeth Foor and Ellen Strassle who helped with the senior class so I could work on this book.

To Jeanette Perry who tolerated the yearbook materials scattered all over Room 118.

To Susan Yearby for keeping me sane throughout this yearbook and this computer escapade.

To Frances Vernon for taking charge and allowing me to get the work done on the book. I couldn't have survived without you.

To Judy Glisson for teaching me how to be a senior class sponsor.

To my students who wrote the copy for the book. (You did a good job!)

To Ley Havird and Chuck Thornton. Without your help there wouldn't have been a third deadline. Thanks for giving up your time to do the work.

To Ley Havird. Remember the index is all yours. (By the way it took nine hours to type it.)

"Break a Leg!"

It's cold.
The ground is hard.
A hand gently sweeps the dirt away.
I can feel the power and the love of my beholder.
She places me in the earth.
I am planted.
Will I ever bloom?
The ground remains hard.
I am a doubter.
Everyday she waters the earth in which I lay.
I begin to believe.
I begin to grow -
I reach forth sprouting new leaves.
With each day I grow more.
I understand more.
I live more.
She continues sprinkling her love and wisdom about me.
Then one day she finds a new life.
She no longer waters my leaves or inspires my growth.
I will continue growing though.
I will continue for her.
For the love she gave.
For the knowledge she shared.

Thank you, Mrs. Scott.

Offering her wisdom on the stage direction of Godspell is drama teacher Mrs. Debbie Scott. Her wisdom and patience have inspired many.

Completing a punctuation quiz seems impossible for senior Mike Buie.

Lee Cobb and Theresa Slezak are offered advice as they prepare for the Mr. and Miss Churchland pageant.

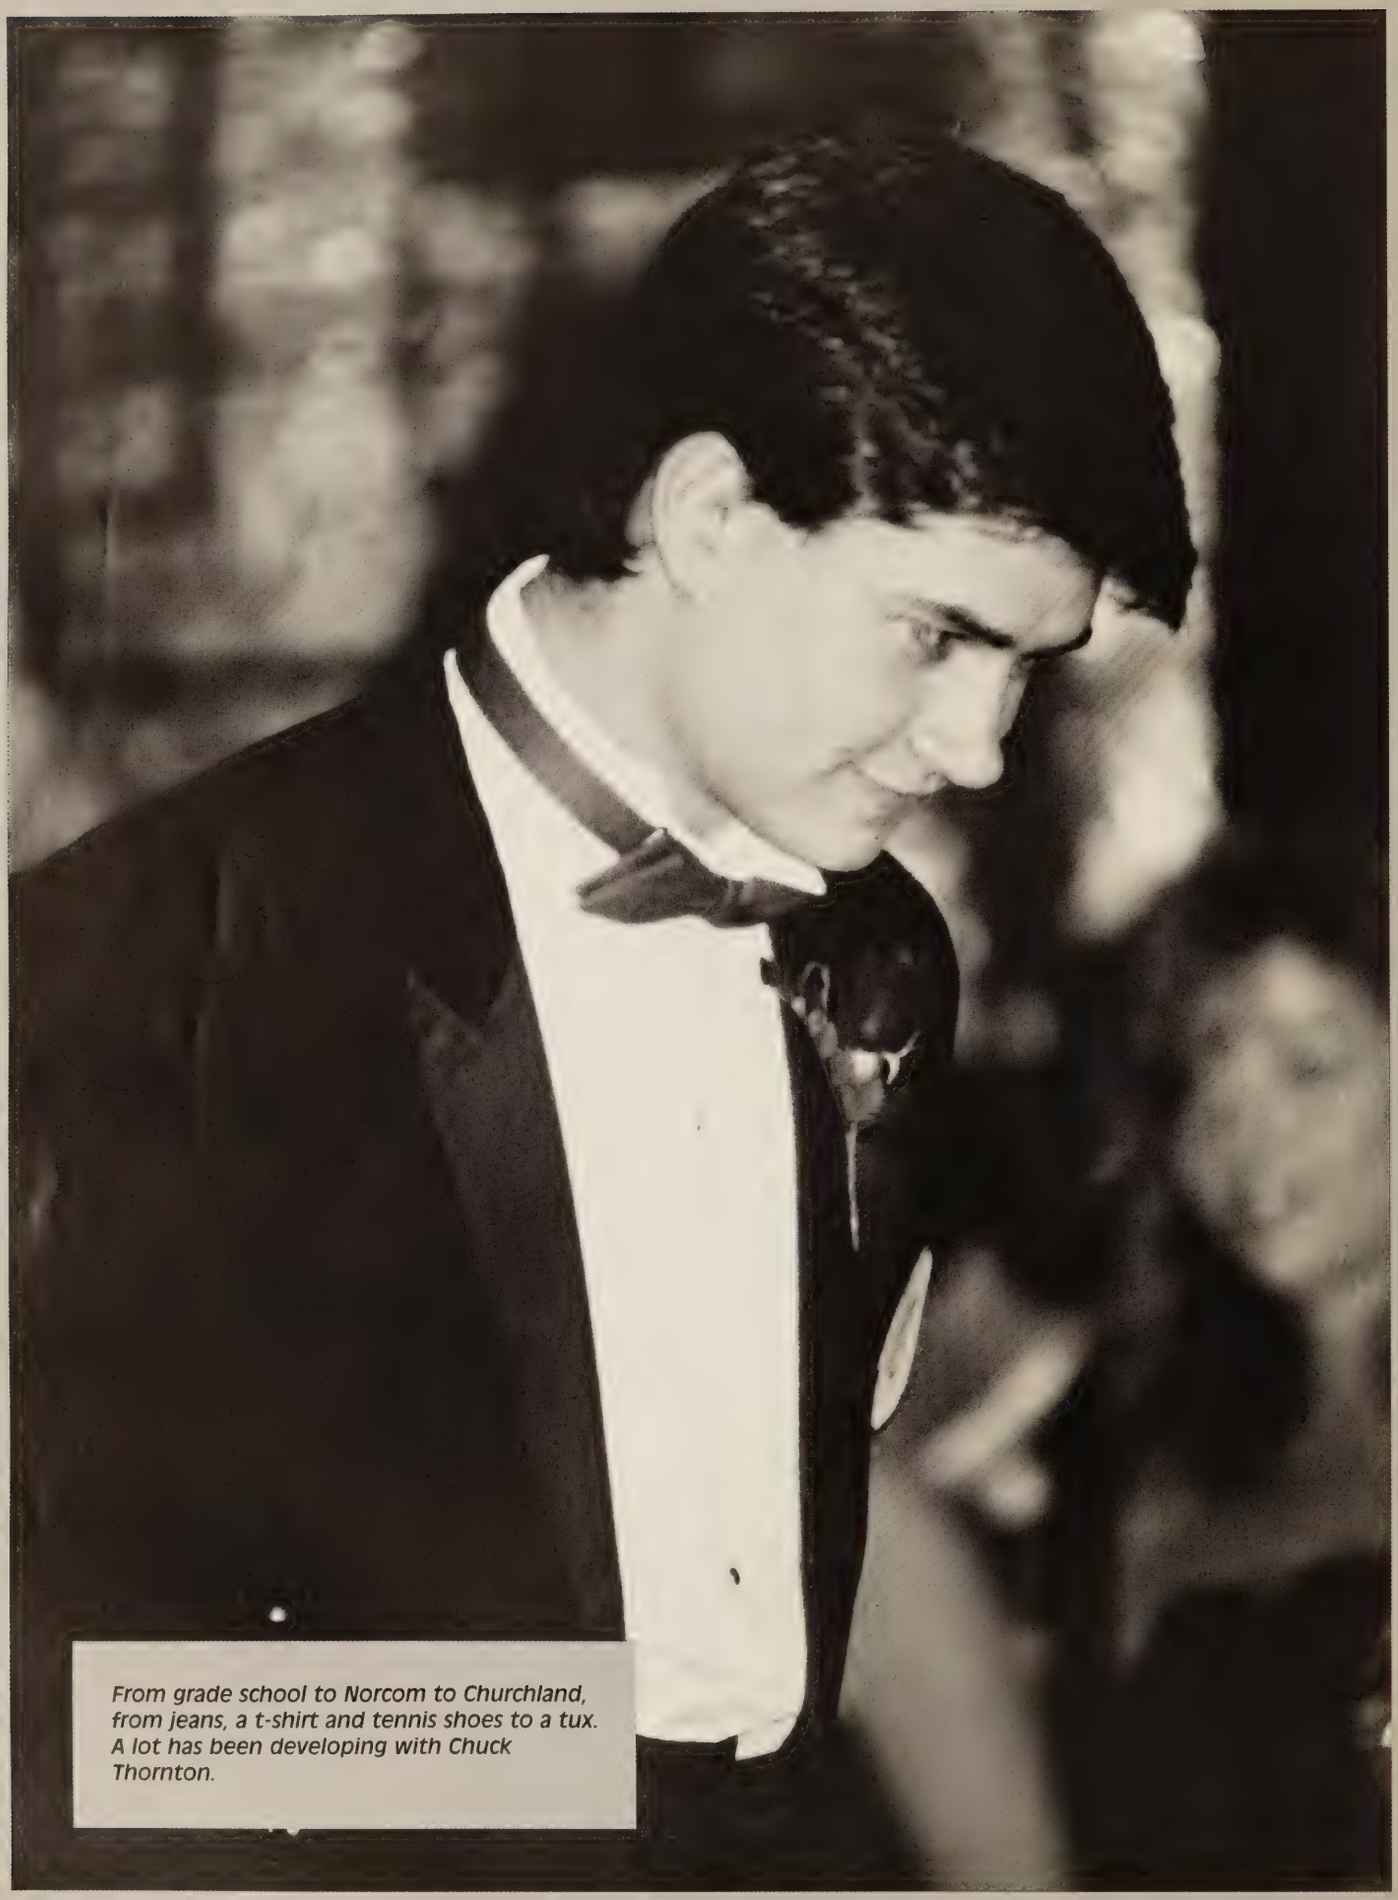
Sarah Ossman, an honor graduate and star tennis and softball player, epitomizes the Churchland spirit of pride and success.

A Lady With Class: Mrs. Mattie Poole

During the thirty-seven years that Mrs. Mattie Poole has been engaged in teaching the youth of this nation, she has witnessed many changes in society and has participated in many innovations in educational methodology. In the midst of these changes, she has remained steadfast in her commitment to standards of excellence. Through her diligent planning and enthusiastic conduct of class activities, she has motivated and challenged her students to reach their highest level of academic achievement and personal growth. Though small in stature, she has been enormous in influence. She has commanded respect and has won the admiration of her students, whom she fondly calls her "angels." Although Mrs. Poole is retiring from teaching at the end of this year, her influence will continue to be felt in the hearts and minds of those lives she has touched so profoundly.

Reviewing the day's mail has become a daily ritual for thirty-seven teaching veteran Mrs. Mattie Poole.

Pageant director Ms. Elizabeth Foor organizes the guys before they begin practicing their introductions.



From grade school to Norcom to Churchland, from jeans, a t-shirt and tennis shoes to a tux. A lot has been developing with Chuck Thornton.
